

Community, Rights, and Gender (CRG) Technical Assistance (TA) Program

The Community, Rights and Gender Technical Assistance (CRG TA) Program was created to help civil society and community organisations and networks make sure that barriers related to human rights and gender are addressed by Global Fund grants.

Who can apply to the CRG TA Program?

- Local or national civil society networks and organisations
- Local or national networks and organisations of people affected by the disease (e.g. key populations, women, youth, PLHIV, TB-affected communities and/or malaria-affected communities)
- CCMs if they collaborate with the other groups for both development and submission of the application

When can I apply?

The program was reformed and you can now access CRG TA at any stage of the grant, including grant implementation. The program also supports community engagement in sustainability and transition planning (STC) or other Global Fund processes like National Strategic Plan (NSP) development.

What type of technical assistance can I request?

You can apply for the CRG TA Program for projects linked to:

- Situational analysis and needs assessments (including gender assessments)
- Engagement in the country dialogue
- Supporting program design
- Supporting oversight and monitoring of grant implementation and re-programming
- Engagement in sustainability and transition strategies

This means that Technical Assistance for advocacy or institutional strengthening cannot be provided through the CRG TA program.

Who provides the CRG TA?

The CRG Department at the Global Fund Secretariat has pre-approved 25 TA providers. You can ask for a specific provider from the list in your application, but the CRG Department takes the final decision.

How can I apply?

To apply, you need to download the application form at https://www.theglobalfund.org/media/5626/fundingmodel_crgtechnicalassistancerequest_form_en.docx?u=63648680740000000. Fill it out and send it to CRGTA@theglobalfund.org.

Alternatively, you may also contact the APCRG Platform at jenho@apcaso.org (platform management), quentinbatreau@apcaso.org (coordination), or jeffacaba@apcaso.org (communications).
